Maine State Law & Legislative Reference Library

High quality legal and legislative information for Maine residents and their governmental entities

Who We Are

Background

The Law Library is both a nonpartisan office of the Maine State Legislature and Maine's official state law library. Established by law in 1971, the Law Library is charged with providing comprehensive reference services to all members of the Legislature and law library services for the use of all state government agencies, the judiciary, the bar, and the citizens of Maine.

Ask a Law Librarian

The Law Library strives to provide access to high quality legal and legislative information to Maine residents and their governmental entities. Our reference librarians help patrons research legislation, legislative history, and legal questions on any topic. The Law Library serves patrons from Kittery to Madawaska and all points in between. We take reference requests through email, over the phone, in person, and by post.

Lending & borrowing

Maine residents may borrow Law Library materials in person or through the mail. If the Law Library does not have an item you need, we can request legal or governmental titles through interlibrary loan. Call us to set up a borrowing account.

Digital Access

E-books

Through LexisNexis Digital Library, the Law Library provides Maine residents with direct, remote access to 900+ law books on their home computers and mobile devices. Contact us to set up an account.

Online repository

The Law and Legislative Digital Library provides online access to a growing collection of historical Maine legal documents.
